IMPACT of
SOCIAL MEDIA ON CHILDREN

The Internet is a very important mean of communication in our current time, it has become an integral part of our daily life. Its use is not limited to a particular age group, but it is used by both, the young's and the elderlies. It's also used as a mean to facilitate banking and government transactions. Since the Internet is an essential part of our social life and the life of the entire family, children grow up among the Internet environment and social networking sites around them everywhere, and it takes a wide part of their lives and activities, especially with the availability of network in small electronic mobile devices that are with them all the time .Literature Review:Of course, human consciousness in himself and in the world is formed through the culture in which it arises and grows within. Culture can be defined as Canadian sociologist Guy Richer went as "a symbolic system of communication among members of the social group, whatever its size, Language, as it is a system of affiliation and belonging to the identities of culture on the production and preservation and dedication, "which is - the culture - what the members earn the characteristics of the inheritance of the sense of differentiation and different from the other.With the expansion of communication space, its means and its openness to new horizons and human groups, the boundaries and cultural spaces between human groups are increasingly eroded. Web sites that transcend their domestic role have played a role in overcoming the narrow national awareness of openness and acceptability. "A child who grows up in the age of satellite channels and sites discovers from an early age that there are people on the other side of the world who live, think and feel differently, which should generate greater tolerance for the other."However, all the means of communication are known to humankind - prior to the media - during the last two centuries, whether newspapers, magazines or publications of all kinds, or satellite channels were visible, did not have the same effect of the current social media, where the former means are available in the hands of a limited category. Through which the agendas and policies implemented by this institution or that, while the means of social communication in the public nature of the use where everyone can establish a platform to address a large audience of people.The statistics and studies indicate the widespread use of social media in the midst of members of Islamic societies in various countries of the world, especially the Arab and Islamic countries, where these means are the first source to receive news and information of a large proportion of users and followers of the activists.He pointed out that this spread and this excessive trust by some users of the means of social communication in those means and the credibility of what is promoted, requires attention by the scholars of the Islamic Umah, to show the positive and negative effects of those means, and the risks of promoting the ideas deviant, lies and rumours that stand Left behind by enemies who lurk at the nation.Conclusion:The one of the most important points that must be aware of the users of social media, whether recipients or makers of material is to take care of the Almighty, and they seek honesty and honesty when writing or transport.For his part, said the virtue of the imam and preacher of the Grand Mosque Sheikh Dr.Saleh bin Abdullah bin Humaid, that" this era, which is tempered by events and reality, and what passes through the Muslim countries of sedition, the need to raise awareness by taking care to explore reality and diagnose, Preventive and remedial measures that may result from such events. "He stressed that the social networks as the most widespread and influential means in contemporary reality, specialists have to take care of the preparation of studies and research that lead to dealing positively with these networks and the issues and topics included, networks have become a window of influence and reception, Of the issues, and became between the useful and harmful, and the excesses and inequities, and between a meeting and a groupThe prospect of social networking sites needs no more thinking; to discover the lack of analytical skill and critical thinking about the theater of communication there; making receiving information from such sites dangerous to the security and stability of communities.In these sites we can predict any reaction from those who do not know the art of criticism of the Almtrouh, and see these sites as sites (chat) allows them to hide behind aliases or even the fact that they do not have; to dispel the toxins community of fuelling, and thus easier to say what they want when they want, without a check, and sergeant as they think!
